GIA®

POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM IN GEMOLOGY AT GIA

GIA (Gemological Institute of America) invites candidates to apply for Richard T. Liddicoat Postdoctoral Research Associate positions at its New York City and Carlsbad, California locations. Selected applicants will research fundamental issues in gemology involving diamonds, colored stones, pearls, and instrument development. The specific focus will depend on each applicant's interests and expertise, as well as GIA research and laboratory initiatives. The Institute's laboratories are fully equipped with professional equipment including all types of spectrometry, chemical analysis, X-ray imaging, and other research tools. GIA also facilitates access to outside research facilities.

Research Associate appointments are for one year and may be extended based on mutual agreement for a second year. The positions are fully funded, including a benefits subsidy and a travel stipend that will be provided as appropriate.

Requirements

Applicants should hold a Ph.D. in a relevant scientific field, preferably obtained within the last three years. Effective communication in English with scientific and production staff, the ability to prepare written scientific articles for publication, and a willingness to travel domestically or internationally as needed are strongly desired.

Applicant evaluations will commence immediately and continue until positions are filled. Starting date is negotiable.

For more information about these openings, including application requirements and to apply:
Visit <https://careers-gia.icims.com>

Please contact Wuyi Wang at wwang@gia.edu for questions or inquiries.

About GIA

Established in 1931, GIA is the world's foremost authority on diamonds, colored stones, and pearls. A public benefit, nonprofit institute, GIA is the leading source of knowledge, standards, and education in gems and jewelry.

GIA is located in 14 countries, with 11 educational campuses, nine laboratories and four research centers. GIA's world headquarters is in Carlsbad, California.
