Electronic Access: Electronic access to the online version of Elements is available on the Elements website at elementsmagazine.org. The online version contains all the material of the print version.

If e-access to American Mineralogist, Canadian Mineralogist has been set up, we will use the same IP addresses for Elements. Institutional subscribers to Mineralogical Magazine and Clay Minerals (and that do not have a subscription to American Mineralogist or Canadian Mineralogist) should send the IP or range of IP addresses covering their institution at the mailing address of the subscription to jaspeer@minsocam.org.

Organizations that network their environment with a proxy server may register the IP address of the proxy server for authentication provided they limit the access to the authorized sites and users by technical methods, such as router setting, or some other means. The proxy server must be owned by the end-user, not a subscription agency or reseller.

Claims: Claims for replacement copies will be honored if the request is received within 120 days of the mailing date. An issue of the journal is generally mailed the month of its cover date.

If we begin to record an excessive number of claims for an account, we will request that the correctness of the mailing address and the receiving procedures be checked and verified. If losses continue at a high rate after that, then, for any future claims for the same issues, replacements will not be sent until a more secure address is provided to us. If the same address is to be used, we will ask for payment for any claim issues sent to it.

Back Issues: Back issues are available and can be ordered online from the Elements website at elementsmagazine.org

Cancellations: Subscription cancellations are accepted anytime, but credit is not given for the remaining issues.
